

Boston Business Journal

NEWS RELEASE

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

CONTACT: Jack Rossin,
Bromberg & Sunstein

June 10, 2008

BROMBERG & SUNSTEIN RECOGNIZED AS ONE OF THE AREA'S "BEST PLACES TO WORK" BY THE BOSTON BUSINESS JOURNAL

Results based on answers to surveys completed by employees

BOSTON- The Boston Business Journal today recognized Bromberg & Sunstein LLP as one of the greater Boston area's "Best Places to Work" when it announced its annual ranking of 60 small, midsize, and large companies that are considered the best places to work based on survey responses from employees of the nominated companies. B&S and staff were honored at an awards breakfast this morning.

"This is the second year in a row we have been so honored. The Award is a reflection of the great people we have and how hard they have worked to make this a wonderful company to be part of," said Robert Kann, Managing Partner of Bromberg & Sunstein.

"This is one of our most popular events because it focuses on both employer and employees," said Michael Olivieri publisher of the Boston Business Journal. "We have found that achieving the title of 'Best Place to Work' is something companies are very proud to achieve because it shows they care about their most important asset – their employees."

The "Best Places to Work" ranking is based on surveys completed by a substantial number of employees at each nominated company. The surveys ask questions related to work environment, work-life balance, job satisfaction, advancement opportunities, compensation and benefits. This year's top ranking firms were chosen from hundreds of nominations – a record number of submissions in the six-year history of the "Best Places to Work." Companies are grouped based on their number of employees, as large (more than 500 employees), midsize (101-500 local employees) and small (20-100 local employees).